INTRODUCTION

The FNS80020 Graduate Certificate in Anti-Money Laundering and Counter Terrorism Financing is designed for individuals who apply knowledge and skills in a compliance and management role which may include aspects of anti-money laundering and counter terrorism financing.

Potential learners for this course would be working at a level in organisations where they make autonomous decisions, initiative and judgement to assess and design a range of AML/CTF functions in a variety of contexts.

Learners will come from roles or be seeking roles where they have full responsibility and accountability for this work and for the work or function of others, potentially leading a team or supervising others in the execution of AML responsibilities.

Graduates will be able to use their cognitive and creative skills to review, critically analyse, consolidate and synthesise knowledge in order to generate ideas and provide solutions to complex AML and financial crime challenges for their organisation. They will be able to use their superior communication skills to demonstrate their understanding of theoretical concepts and to convey this knowledge and these ideas to others.

Our content will also canvas other financial crime elements, so that the content is more than just anti-money laundering in focus. The Australian Compliance Institute's experience is that it is often the responsibility of this area of the compliance function to understand the management of risk across this broad spectrum of financial crime risk.
